about

@droog is located between Groenburgwal and Staalstraat in the city centre of Amsterdam, near the beautiful Staalbrug bridge, the Amstel river, the Zuidertoren tower and Waterlooplein square. In total, the venue is spread over five historical buildings.

Back in the 17th century, this location hosted the so-called Staalmeestersgilde, a group of textile craftsman. Their members are portrayed on Rembrandt's masterpiece De Staalmeesters, which is on display in the Rijksmuseum.

In 2004, Droog started occupying the building. Since 1993, Droog started gaining international fame as a Dutch design platform. Droog put Dutch Design on the world map with exciting global projects, innovative ideas and products. Today, this building represents Droog's legacy in the form of a cultural hub. @droog, you can now find an art gallery, restaurant and meeting spaces - all surrounded by Droog Design.

@droog has six spaces where weddings can be organised. Each space has their own unique character, but all of them include a Droog signature. The entire building (including the Fairytale Garden) is open for public, and decorated with art, one-of-a-kind design pieces and items from the Droog collection.
